

What's the point of a new needle? How can we help our patients living with diabetes?

Start the conversation every time you dispense a patient's injectable diabetes medication, pen needle, or insulin syringe.

"Can you tell me about your injection routine?"

"How often do you change your injection sites?"

"Did you know pen needles/insulin syringes are designed for single use only?"¹

With every injection, just two small steps can make a difference¹:

1 Replace your needle.

2 Rotate injection sites.

Walk your patients through the counseling materials provided.

Educate your patients to help improve adherence to their diabetes injection regimen.

1. Frid AH, et al. New insulin delivery recommendations. Mayo Clin Proc. 2016;91(9):1231-1255.

